FOREWORD

This report contains the research output of the Center for calendar year 1980. This report is published annually in an attempt to effect greater awareness and distribution of the Center's research output.

The 1980 report displays several new features designed to enhance its usefulness. Emphasis has been placed on archival or documented research. Particular care has been taken to provide complete citations, including source of availability.

Comments regarding the usefulness of the report are welcomed as are suggestions for improving its usefulness. Comments/suggestions should be addressed to the Report and Manuscript Control Office (RAMCO), Mail Stop 180A, NASA Langley Research Center, Hampton, Virginia 23665, (804) 827-3251 or 827-2301.

INTRODUCTION

The Langley Research Center is one of the leading national laboratories for research and development in the sciences of aeronautics and space technology. For more than 60 years, Langley engineers and scientists have conducted basic and applied research in fluid and flight mechanics, flight systems, structures and materials, acoustics and noise reduction, measurements and instrumentation systems, data systems, and space and Earth sciences. The results of this research are disseminated through NASA scientific and technical publications as well as through a variety of non-NASA media. The Center's research output is processed through Langley's Scientific and Technical Information (STI) Program, which is an integral part of the NASA Scientific and Technical Information System. The Center's STI program is managed by the Scientific and Technical Information Programs Division (STIPD).

The new features that have been added to the report this year include author, NASA subject category, RTOP, and Tech Brief subject indexes. The categories have been expanded to include Computer Programs, Tech Briefs, and Patents. Each of these new categories is described below.

The computer programs listed in this document have been announced in recent issues of "Computer Program Abstracts," which were released in calendar year 1980. "Computer Program Abstracts," is an indexed journal containing abstracts of documented computer programs developed by NASA, NASA contractors, and other Federal Agencies. These computer programs are offered for sale through the NASA-sponsored Computer Software Management and Information Center (COSMIC) located at the University of Georgia.

The Tech Briefs listed in this document have been published in recent issues of "NASA Tech Briefs," which were released in 1980. "NASA Tech Briefs," a quarterly publication, is distributed free to engineers in U.S. industry and to other domestic technology transfer agents. It is both a current awareness document and a problem solving tool. For information on subscription to NASA Tech Briefs and other publications and services available through the NASA Technology Utilization Program, write to the Director, Technology Transfer Division, NASA Scientific and Technical Information Facility, P. O. Box 8757, Baltimore/Washington International Airport, Maryland 21240.

Patents owned in whole or part by Langley research personnel and listed in this document have been published in recent issues of "Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports" (STAR). STAR, the NASA announcement journal for report literature, is available on a subscription basis from the U.S. Government Printing Office (GPO) or to qualified recipients from the NASA Scientific and Technical Information Facility. NASA Patent Application Specifications are sold by the National Technical Information Service (NTIS). Printed (paper) copies of patents are available for purchase from the Commissioner of Patents.

The citations are listed first by Division or Office and then under the following headings: Formal Reports, Quick-Release Technical Memorandums, Contractor Reports, Journal Articles, Meeting/Conference Papers, Computer Programs, Tech Briefs, Patents, and Unpublished Research. Under each heading, the citations are listed by author in alphabetical order. If a report has more than one author and those authors are from different Divisions or Offices, the citation is listed only once, under the senior author's name. Tech Briefs are listed under the main innovator's name. This is not necessarily the order in which the innovators' names appear on the Tech Brief.
A publication of this magnitude requires the efforts of many individuals. Special recognition is given to the Scientific and Technical Information Coordinators who were responsible for ensuring the accuracy of their respective Division or Office submittals, the Office of Technology Utilization and Applications Programs for providing the Tech Brief and Computer Program listings, and the Office of Patent Counsel for providing the Patent listings. Finally, a note of thanks and appreciation to those individuals in the Technical Editing Branch of STIPD, who typed, proofread, and indexed the report.
